KVIC SENDS LEGAL NOTICE TO FABINDIA FOR VIOLATING REGULATIONS

Khadi and Village Industries Commission has come down strongly on Fabindia for selling its readymade cotton garments as Khadi products without getting proper approvals and threatened legal action if the organisation did not stop the practice immediately.

In a strongly worded legal notice to Fabindia Chief Executive Officer, Viney Singh, KVIC's Director, Legal Affairs, noted that the organisation was continuing to sell its garments in the name and style of Khadi despite earlier warnings by KVIC and assurances by fabindia that it will not do so. "It is an illegal act and, in other words, amounts to indulging in unfair trade practice," the notice says.

As per Khadi Mark Regulations, 2003 notified by the Union Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises, no textile shall be sold or otherwise traded by any person or certified Khadi institution as "Khadi" or "Khadi products" in any form or manner without it bearing a "Khadi Mark" tag or label issued by a Committee under the Regulation.

The regulation, among other things, enforces certain obligations on every person or certified Khadi institutions engaged in the business of sale of products as Khadi or Khadi products.

The legal notice has pointed out that KVIC had drawn the attention of FabIndia to this aspect in August 2015 itself, when the company had issued some advertisements for selling/ trading of fabric in the name of Khadi and in a letter dated August 13, 2015, asked it to stop further advertisement and sale.

FabIndia had agreed to do so and vide letter dated 16th Oct 2015 informed KVIC that "as per direction issued by your office, we have stopped advertisement campaign in all media. We have also sent internal directions to stop selling the cloth with reference to Khadi"

Consequently, KVIC held discussions with representatives of FabIndia on the details of the procedural requirements for issuing Khadi mark certificate. But, as FabIndia did not adhere to the procedural formalities/ requirements of Khadi Mark certificate, KVIC denied the certificate and this was conveyed to FabIndia in a letter dated September 29, 2016.

However, despite written assurances, FabIndia is selling readymade garments from its outlets under the name of "khadi" and have also put up prominent Khadi display panels at their sales outlets."

The legal notice noted that a close scrutiny of garments sold by FabIndia and their price tag showed that while the labels stitched on the garments mentioned them as "FabIndia Cotton", however price tag, which were removable, had the word 'khadi' and pointed that this proved that FabIndia was misleading the consumers.

On proposal of Directorate of Khadi Certification for appraising about unauthorised/illegal use of name of Khadi by M/s. Fab India overseas pvt. Ltd., and issuing of legal notice to M/s. Fab India :

1. Commission noted and appreciated the action taken by officials of KVIC on unauthorized/illegal use of name of 'Khadi' by M/s. Fabindia Overseas Pvt. Ltd. and issuing of legal notice to M/s. Fabindia Overseas Pvt. Ltd. for violation of Khadi Mark Regulations.

2. He also brought to the notice of the Commission, the instances where institutions are demanding one time settlement of loan availed by the institutions and the State / Divisional Directors after negotiation with institutions are fixing the amount for One Time Settlement (OTS) which are paid by the institutions to KVIC and thus they are demanding the custody of title deeds of property mortgaged to KVIC.

3. In this connection Commission observed that State / Divisional Directors have no authority, nor any guidelines have been issued to negotiate for one time settlement (OTS) with any institutions and in case they are doing so, then the same is being done at their personal risk and hence there is no question of KVIC agreeing to OTS or returning the title deeds of property of any institution mortgaged to KVIC.

4. Chairman KVIC made it very clear that even though the institutions might have refunded the entire loan amount to KVIC with interest; even then they are not the legal owners of the property because it was KVIC, which had nurtured such institutions since their inception through various forms of grants and subsidized loans and had helped them to grow and sustain themselves over a period of time. Further, as per Govt. guidelines, assets created wholly or substantially out of Govt. funds cannot be disposed off without the concurrence from the Government.

5. Commission further took note of observations of Member(SZ) that a former State Director, had parted with title deeds of property of one institution without following the due procedures and finally the institutions had sold off the said property using the title deeds released by the said State Director. In this regard, Commission directed to hold an enquiry into the incident and bring the culprit to book and also take necessary actions to prevent the recurrence of such incidents in future.

6. Commission also directed to take stern action on officials who (1) do not maintain property register in State / Divisional Offices (2) who did not register KVIC property with Registrar of Societies and/or Registrar of Land Revenue and (3) those who keep the title deeds of property of institutions mortgaged with KVIC in the premises of State / Divisional Offices instead of bank lockers.

DESIGN AND DEVELOPMENT OF 12 SPINDLE HIGH SPEED AMBER CHARKHA RUNNING WITH SOLAR ENERGY

(Development carried out by Khadi Gramodyog Prayog Samiti-Ahmedabad and project financed by Khadi Village Industries Commission)

BACKGROUND

In the light of recent modern developments in spinning textile sector, the conventional technology of Amber Charkha, which is being used by people in small scale /rural industries, is comparatively primitive. Various components of Amber Charkha are required to be carefully newly designed and modified. Moreover, most of its operators are not aware of various process parameters and the conditions of parts and their functions. It requires to carry out an extensive study of the Amber Charkha and put efforts to improve its performance.

The production rate of the conventional slow speed Amber Charkha has been found to be extremely low. Moreover, the quality of yarn produced on the Amber Charkha is also found to be poor, particularly in terms of strength and faults.

Thus, the major causes of the above mentioned shortcomings are as follows:

- (1) Poor mechanical condition of the charkha (as shown in figure 1 & 2).
- (2) Poor design of various components of the charkha (as shown in figure 3 & 4)
- (3) Non-optimization of parameters (as shown in figure 5 & 6).
- (4) Lack of knowledge of operators i.e. how to get best out of the Amber Charkha (as shown in figure 7 & 8).

In order to overcome these shortcomings, Khadi Gramodyog Prayog Samiti (KGPS-Ahmedabad) has put efforts and developed new type of 12 spindles high speed Amber Charkha running with solar energy, the figure 9 of which is given below:

Figure : 9
High Speed 12 Spindles
Amber Charkha Developed by KGPS

Appropriate design and developments / modifications, use of appropriate process parameters and as well as skill up gradation activities were carried out which turned into minimization of processing cost of yarn being produced by the developed Amber Charkha for the khadi sector. In order to improve the productivity of the Charkha, efforts were made to reduce the end-breakage rate of the machine, especially considering the drawback and limitations of the Amber Charkha. The efforts to improve performance of Amber Charkhas were put by KGPS having following ideas:

1. Modified the critical parts of the machine and convert it having 12 spindles running with solar energy at 12000 rpm spindle speed capacity.

2. Introduction of roving traverse, balloon controlling, doffing device systems
3. Optimized various mechanical speed & settings related parameters of the charkha.
3. Organized field demonstration programs to assess the impact of innovative work and also to create awareness about the above work.
4. Imparted training to operators to create skills on how to maintain the charkha.

COMPARISON BETWEEN

CONVENTIONAL CHARKHA v/s HIGH SPEED MODERN AMBER CHARKHA

Various experiments were conducted by the KGPS to compare the performance between conventional v/s modified high speed Amber Charkhas.

The summary of some of the average results is given in following table:

Parameters	Conventional Amber Charkha	Modified High Speed Amber Charkha
Yarn Count Spun (Nm)	50.0	50.5
Yarn CSP	1846	2076
Uster U%	21.3	19.6
Imperfections / Km	6824	5672
Yarn Breakages / 100 spindle hour	89	38
Actual Production (GSS)	50	105

OUTCOMES / RESULTS OBTAINED

A. New types of parts / systems for enhancing the performance of modified Amber Charkha are practically successful and no working difficulty was observed after their implementation on the developed charkha.

B. Major drawbacks of the conventional Amber Charkha could be overcome by implementing the appropriate modifications in the new solar Amber Charkha.

C. Number of spindles increased from 8 to 12 and spindle speed has been enhanced from existing 7000 to 12000 rpm run by using solar motor.

D. Modified Amber Charkha could successfully be run at higher spindle speed and able to produce multi count yarns from different fibres.

E. Production rate of the developed solar charkha has increased substantially as compared to the conventional one; i.e. from average 35 hanks to 80 to 100 hanks of yarn.

F. The developed charkha is running with the minimum yarn breakage rate; i.e. 30 to 40 breaks/100 spindles per hour.

G. Quality of yarn (in terms of strength, U%, imperfections etc.) produced from the developed charkha is much superior to that of the yarn of conventional charkha.

H. Earnings of artisans as well as khadi sector are likely to be improved due to above mentioned benefits. In other words, the earning of artisan is likely to increase four times i.e. Rs. 400 instead of existing average Rs. 100 per charkha.

Moreover, because of lower yarn breakages and solar energy one artisan can manage two high speed amber charkha at a time and thereby the double earning can be possible.

THE WARP AND WEFT

The war over Khadi: What it means for aspirant buyers of India's freedom fabric

Shefalee Vasudev

NEW DELHI: A khadi war is looming. Just before the working week ended on Saturday, the state-run Khadi and Village Industries Commission (KVIC) fired off a legal notice to Fabindia, saying it should stop selling garments in the name of khadi.

KVIC's media cell called it a "strongly worded legal notice" that stressed its ownership over brand khadi, a symbol of India's freedom struggle that went on to become the uniform of choice for post-independence politicians and has now evolved into a fashion statement. "The organisation (Fabindia) was continuing to sell its garments in the name and style of khadi despite earlier warnings by KVIC and assurances by Fabindia that it will not do so. It is an illegal act and amounts to indulging in unfair trade practice," said the notice.

KVIC threatened Fabindia with legal action if it did not stop the practice immediately.

KVIC chairman V K Saxena cited the KVIC Act of 1956 and the Khadi Mark Regulations of 2003—notified by the Union ministry for micro, small and medium enterprises—to say "no product can be sold as khadi without the khadi Mark tag. Not only that, any private brand or producer of khadi must buy khadi from a government-cleared khadi institution. This is the only way to protect khadi artisans".

Brands that sell khadi products or garments must, in accordance with the law, apply for a khadi mark regulation certificate—a 45-day process.

"₹10,000 as fee for the certificate and a list of 25 spinners and five weavers is all we seek.

Anyone can sell khadi as long as they follow KVIC's checks and balances and follow regulations," said Saxena. Equally, Fabindia Overseas

Pvt Ltd, established in 1960, claims to run the country's largest retail platform for goods produced by artisans who live largely in rural areas.

Fabindia CEO Viney Singh said in an emailed statement: "We are in receipt of the notice and have responded to KVIC, requesting a meeting with the designated authorities to understand the issues that have been raised, and to resolve them."

KVIC's increasing assertion of its legal ownership of Khadi has made companies like Raymond apply for a regulation certification last year to sell khadi fabrics, according to Saxena. However, many other khadi players remain unaware about the obligation.

That's exactly the warp and weft of the brand khadi story. What must consumers make of what is sold as khadi?

Khadi exponent Rita Kapur Chishti's label Taanbaan uses handspun, handwoven khadi made on the traditional spinning wheel but nowhere does her brand spell out khadi.

According to Chishti, most, if not all, of what is paraded as khadi is from semi-mechanised amber charkhas. "Desi charkhas have been completely forsaken because they are slow in production."

For the aspiring khadi weaver, its brand value as the fabric of freedom endorsed by the greatest handloom marketer of all time, Mahatma Gandhi, is clear. Less clear is what makes for khadi—whether it is handspun, or spun on amber charkhas, or industrial charkhas.

Under the ambiguities, there is a messy khadi war challenging the notion that khadi's economic growth and "protection of rural artisans" are the exclusive preserve of the government. KVIC may need to do a lot of efficient and unbiased work to employ vigilance. Picking out the many spurious khadi outlets is one.

Meanwhile, one important question remains: whose khadi is it anyway?

Khadi sale to grow by 35% this year

KVIC has bagged orders from several public sector companies such as ONGC (Rs 52 crore) and government departments such as railways (Rs 42 crore) since the Narendra Modi government came to power. But KVIC had maintained that a majority of the orders were not through nomination but through a competitive process.

If KVIC is able to supply goods worth Rs 150 crore to hospitals, this alone will be over 7% of its annual sales for the current year. Last year, the sale of khadi products was estimated at a little over Rs 1,500 crore and is projected to grow 35% in the current financial year. Sales have boomed over the last few years as the government has pushed khadi. While demand is rising at a brisk pace, growth in production has been lagging and has emerged as a key challenge for KVIC.

"The ministry of health adopting khadi for hospitals and staff is a significant symbol of khadi being the most natural and organic skin-friendly fabric..." J P Nadda's example of prescribing khadi for medical staff will result in purchases of Rs 150 crore by the health ministry. It will have a compounding effect of livelihood support it gives to khadi artisans," KVIC chairman V K Saxena said while confirming the health ministry order.

KVIC sends legal notice to Fabindia for using brand name Khadi

MPOST BUREAU

NEW DELHI: Khadi India has threatened to sue Fabindia, a chain of ethnic wear retail outlets, for allegedly indulging in "unfair trade practice" by using and selling its cotton products unauthorised under its registered brand name "Khadi".

Khadi & Village Industries Commission (KVIC) has sent a legal notice to Fabindia Overseas Pvt Ltd asking it to immediately stop using Khadi word from all its cotton products and remove display banners from its showrooms immediately alleging that Khadi India's brand name was unlawfully used to mislead and confuse the consumers.

"You are called upon to explain your position in the above matter within 15 days from the date of receipt of this notice, failing which the KVIC will be constrained to proceed against your company as per law for the violation of Khadi Mark Regulation and payment or incidental damages for the losses caused to KVIC by Fabindia," the February 8 legal notice addressed to Fabindia's New Delhi-based CEO said.

KVIC, which is an autonomous body under the Ministry of Micro, Small & Medium Enterprises, said that despite warning and assurances given earlier, continuation of selling garments in the name and style of 'Khadi' was an illegal act and amounted to "indulging in unfair trade practice by selling normal cotton fabric as Khadi".

Justifying the legal notice, KVIC Chairman V K Saxena said, "the KVIC was very keen to protect its reputation and would take stringent measures against those who violated rules and regulations that have been framed for the benefit of rural artisans attached to it."

Maintaining that earlier too such action has been taken against major companies, including one last year, Saxena said the notice to Fabindia said, as per the Khadi Mark Regulations, 2003 and Khadi & Village Industries Commission Act, 1956 in order to regulate the production, sale or trading of Khadi and Khadi products in India, "no textile shall be sold or otherwise traded by any person or certified Khadi institution as 'Khadi' or 'Khadi products', in any form or manner without it bearing a 'Khadi Mark' tag or label issued by KVIC". It also said Fabindia was denied the certificate to use the brand name Khadi as it did not adhere to the procedural formalities for Khadi mark certification which was discussed with the representatives of the private company. The notice claimed that despite written assurances, Fabindia was still selling readymade garments from its outlets under the name of 'Khadi' and have also put up prominent Khadi display panels at their various sales outlets.

"Further, on visit to your outlets, it was found that readymade garments as Khadi are being sold from your several outlets. Photocopy of few such price tags and display panel at Bengaluru Airport clearly indicate products being sold by Fabindia as Khadi", the legal notice said.

फैशन ने हथकरघा को दिलाया है सम्मान

एजेसियां, मुंबई : डिजाइनर गौरांग शाह ने बुनाई करीगरी को शानदार तरीके से पुनर्जीवित किया है और खादी को फिर से लोकप्रिय बनाया है। वह इस बात से बेहद खुश हैं कि फैशन उद्योग ने हथकरघा का स्वागत किया है और इसे अपनाया है।

शाह ने बताया, 'एक वस्त्र डिजाइनर के रूप में मैं कहना चाहूंगा कि भारतीय फैशन उद्योग ने हथकरघा को पूरे सम्मान के साथ अपनाया है। हमने पारंपरिक बुनाई कला का पुनरुद्धार किया है। जैसे जमदानी बुनाई का इस्तेमाल हम अपने फैशन परिधानों को बनाने में कर रहे हैं।' डिजाइनर का कहना है कि यह बुनिया भर में अपने अद्वितीय सौंदर्य को बढ़ाता है।

शाह ने 40 परिधानों के संग्रह को 'मसलिन' नाम से लैक्मे फैशन वीक समारोह/रिपोर्ट 2017 में पेश किया। उनका संकलन प्रकृति के रोमांस से प्रेरित था। अपने रेंज के बारे में डिजाइनर ने बताया कि उनके संग्रह में पश्चिम बंगाल, आंध्र प्रदेश, उत्तर प्रदेश, मध्य प्रदेश और मिजोरम की बुनाई और तकनीक को

शामिल किया गया है। सफेद रंग के परिधानों पर भव्य मुगल रूपक, खादी पर ज्यामितीय पैटर्न, चिकनकारी कढ़ाई और खूबसूरत पारसी गारा कढ़ाई का इस्तेमाल हुआ है। डिजाइनर के संग्रह को तैयार करने के लिए 50 बुनकरों ने छह महीने लगातार काम किया। शाह की खूबसूरत बुनाई वाली कांजीवरम साड़ी को 69वें कान फिल्म महोत्सव के दौरान फिल्म 'सरबजीत' की निर्माता दीपिका देशमुख पहन चुकी हैं। डिजाइनर कहते हैं कि हथकरघा भारत की गौरवशाली विरासत है और इसका संरक्षण करना और बुनकर समुदाय की मदद करना आवश्यक है।

उन्होंने कहा कि कुछ साल पहले यह खूबसूरत कला विलुप्त होने के कगार पर थी, लेकिन कुछ लोगों के प्रयासों ने इसे पुनर्जीवन दिया। उन्होंने कहा कि प्रधानमंत्री नरेंद्र मोदी के प्रयासों और प्रचार से उच्च स्तर पर भारतीय हैंडलूम की स्वीकार्यता बढ़ी है। शाह ने महज दो बुनकरों के साथ काम करना शुरू किया था और आज उनके लेबल के साथ 700 से ज्यादा बुनकर जुड़े हुए हैं।

KVIC SENDS LEGAL NOTICE TO FABINDIA FOR VIOLATING REGULATIONS

Khadi and Village Industries Commission has come down strongly on Fabindia for selling its ready made cotton garments as Khadi products without getting proper approvals and threatened legal action if the organisation did not stop the practice immediately. In a strongly worded legal notice to Fabindia Chief Executive Officer, Viney Singh, KVIC's Director [Legal Affairs], noted that the organisation was continuing to sell its garments in the name and style of Khadi despite earlier warnings by KVIC and assurances by Fabindia that it will not do so. "It is an illegal act and, in other words, amounts to indulging in unfair trade practice," that it will not do so. As per Khadi Mark Regulations, 2003 notified by the Union Ministry of Micro, S mall and Medium Enterprises, no textile shall be sold or otherwise traded by any person or certified Khadi institution as "Khadi" or "Khadi products" in any form or manner without it bearing a "Khadi Mark" tag or label issued by a Committee under the Regulation. The regulation, among other things, enforces certain obligations on every person or certified Khadi institutions engaged in the business of sale of products as Khadi or Khadi products.

Acknowledging receipt of the notice to ET, Viney Singh, CEO, Fabindia said, "We are in receipt of the notice and have responded to KVIC, requesting a meeting with the designated authorities to understand the issues that have been raised, and to resolve them."

Bhopal: Aiming to promote Khadi, a unique kind of event, Youth Khadi festival, was held at Gandhi Bhavan on Saturday.

An array of activities were organised on the occasion, opening up scope for understanding the various dimensions of Khadi through a debate competition and a Khadi fabric designing exercise.

The event commenced with 'Thread-ing Words', a debate, in which both the motion speaker and interjector of each team got five minutes to express their views on topics relating to Khadi, its revival and village industries. The participants put forth their opinions and showcased their in-depth knowledge about the subject.

Going forward, there was another activity 'Design the Wheel' — a designing contest — in which participants had to design fabrics given to them. The end results turned out to be very pretty indeed, whether that was some accessory, actual garments or laptop covers, all weaved out of the Khadi fabric. The event concluded with a fashion show, with children from Arushi walking down the ramp, wearing attires made from Khadi. They looked beautiful wearing dhoti pants, Nehru jacket, shirts etc.

THINKERS BEHIND THE EVENT
The event was jointly organised under the aegis of Khadi and Village Industry Commission (KVIC), along with Mahatma Gandhi Seva Ashram, Jaura (MGSA)
